FOMET SPA produce and offers a wide range of solid fertilizers (pellets) and liquids capable of supporting quality and cereal yield production.

The products are suitable to be used in organic and conventional farming, taking advantage of the stabilized organic matter, their high content in humic substances, beneficial microorganisms and organic nutrients derived from our patented controlled fermentation process (AFRODITE® biotech).

AFRODITE® is the process that allows us to obtain naturally fermented and stable fertilizers, rich in beneficial components for soil and plants. The organic substances contained in FOMET products revitalizes the fertility of the soil, giving active organic molecules (humic and fulvic acids) and beneficial microorganisms in addition to the derived nutrients 100% from organic raw materials.
